THE ADVENTISTS IN CAMP

Virginia Members of the Sect at Hume's Grove.

Preparing for the World's End-Their Meetings to Continue Until August 22-Three Hundred People at the Opening Exercises-Topics to Be Discussed by the Elders.

The annual camp meeting of the Seventh Day Adventists of Virginia opened at Hume's Grove, St. Asaph, yesterday mornng and promises to eclipse in attendance and results any conference previously held by this body. About 300 people are atending the meeting and over fifty tents have already been erected. Many visitors rom this city were present during the

The object of the numerous camp meetings is to bring these facts to the attention of the people.

Today is the Sabbath of the little band now camping in Hume's Grove, Last evening a group of watchers stood upon the hill and looked far into the western horizon awaiting the setting of the sun. As the last red streak disappeared a great bell, erected for the occasion, was tolled, and those in the camp ceased to labor, for the Sabbath had begun and it will end at

The sect of Seventh Day Adventists was founded about fifty years ago, and the doctrines which give them the name are the observance of the seventh day as Sabbath, observance of the seventh Tay as Sabbath, and the expectation of the literal personal second coming of Christ.

They expect the end of the world within a very few years. The signs indicative of this will be fully explained during the progress of this meeting.

More than fifty of these camp meetings were held last year, and it is stated that nearly double that number will be held during the present summer. Hume's Grove, where the Adventists are meeting, is about four miles from this city, and is situated upon a hill close to St. Asaph station, near four miles from this city, and is situated upon a hill close to St. Asaph station, near Alexandria.

A small colored boy and an iron-rimmed hoop were responsible for a tie-up on the have been staying in Long Island for the Eckington and G Street branches of the City and Suburban, Railroad yesterday morning. The tie-up covered a period of thirty minutes and was complete while it lasted, as none of the cars on the affected branch of the road was able to operate. Considerable delay was occasioned by the inability of the railroad people to locate the cause of the trouble, but when it was without difficulty. Later in the afternoon the road was again tied up, but it was claimed that the hoop accident was in no way responsible for it.

The delay in the first instance was due to the fact that an iron hoop propelled by a small colored boy got caught in the slot between the rails at the corner of Fifth and G Streets northwest, where the branches intersect. The boy was running early summer at Cranston, N. Y., is now along G Street northwest deftly steering with her husband at Fort Logan, Col., where he is at present stationed.

Finally, the small boy seemed possessed with an idea, and returning to the slot took hold of the edge of the hoop and after repeated struggles succeeded in getting it dislodged. It is said that he was alightly shocked while withdrawing the hoop. Whether this is true is not known, but one fact was patent, and that we that the boy exhibited no concern over the affair after he had regained possession of the hoop. According to the report received here yesterday afternoon by the police the collision occurred about 2:20 a. m. The freight train was southbound from Baltimore and on reaching Bowie ran into an open switch and crashed into the standing freight cars. Plowman and Kelly were on the top of the cars of the train, and were joited from their positions. They fell between the cars and were crushed as they came together. It was seen at once that Plowman, at least, was seriously injured and all haste was made to get the men to this city, where they were taken to the hospital in No. 5 patrol wagon.

An examination at the hospital showed that Plowman was the more seriously injured. Both arms had been crushed, and the right arm was broken. His head was badly crushed and bruised, and his face was lacerated. In addition to that he had sustained several body bruises, which, together with symptoms developed, led to the belief that he was internally injured. At a late hour last night the man was Colonel Miller Gathering Data or Potomac Drinking Water.

A report will be made to Congress this fall by Col. A. M. Miller, the engineer officer in charge of the Washington Aqueduct relative to the experiments which he is conducting for the purpose of ascertaining whether it will be advisable and feasible to establish a system of filtration to purify Potomac drinking water. He has made a preliminary report to the War Department, stating that he is investigating and experimenting along two lines, namely, sand flitration and mechanical filtration.

The sand filtration, he says, was tried last month at the rate of 3,000,000 gallons per day per acre, and the mechanical filter per day per acre, and the interaction inter-was run at the rate of 131,000,000 gallons per acre. Colonel Miller directed that the filtered water be examined and analyzed for the purpose of ascertaining how much alum was left in the water filtered by the machine method. Both filters were exam-ined for bacteriological results and turbid-ty, and chapited examinations made for ity, and chemical examinations made for the purpose of reaching calculations rela-tive to hardness, solidity, and alkalinity. A daily record of the filters has been prepared for the final report. The investiga-tions conducted by Colonel Miller are being made under the provisions of the act of Congress last year, which appropriated $5,000 for the work.

A BROKER UNDER ARREST. An Unstamped Stock Transfer Causes

Trouble for Thomas Young. Thomas Young, an employe of the stock broking firm of Murphy & Co., and at present in charge of its office in Fifteenth Street, was yesterday before United States

Commissioner Mills on the charge of vio-lating section 4 of the War Revenue law. which provides that revenue stamps shall be placed upon documents of transfer. He was placed under $1,000 bonds by Commis-sioner Mills, who will hear the case against him next Tuesday.
The prosecuting The prosecuting witness against Mr. Young is Dr. S. Albert Fishblate, who has been a customer of the firm of Murphy made complaint that the law had been vio-lated, The luternal Revenue Commissioner laid the matter before the District Attor-ncy's office and a warrant was then sworn out against Mr. Young by Assistant Dis-trict Attorney Ashley M. Gould. Mr. Young last night stated that the contract for the sale of Brooklyn Rapid Transit stock to Dr. Fishblate must have been given to him unstanged in a rush of een given to him unstamped in a rush of been given to him unstamped in a rush of business through inadvertence. He stated further that the rules of the brokerage of-fices made it obligatory for customers to pay for the stamps and that there is no reason why a broker should attempt to evade the stamp law.

Lord Charles Beresford Accepts. Young is Dr. S. Albert Fishblate, who has been a customer of the firm of Murphy & Co. It is charged that Mr. Young sold to Dr. Fishblate thirty shares of Brooklyn Rapid Transit stock and failed to affix the proper revenue stamps on the papers of transfer. Dr. Fishblate, it is said, carried his unstamped contract to the office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue and Lipton to be its guest.
